

Unleashing the Power of Human-Computer Interaction: Interact 2024

Human-computer interaction (HCI) is a rapidly evolving field that explores the relationship between humans and technology. HCI professionals design and develop systems that make it easier for people to use computers and other electronic devices.

Interact 2024 is a leading international conference on HCI. The conference will be held in Copenhagen, Denmark, from August 25-29, 2024. Interact 2024 will bring together researchers, practitioners, and designers from around the world to share their latest findings and insights on HCI.

What is the focus of Interact 2024?

The focus of Interact 2024 is on the following areas:

- User experience: How can we design systems that are more user-friendly, efficient, and enjoyable to use?
- Design: What are the best practices for HCI design? How can we create systems that are both beautiful and functional?
- Technology: What are the latest HCI technologies? How can we use these technologies to create better systems?
- Innovation: What are the newest and most innovative HCI ideas? How can we push the boundaries of HCI?

Why should you attend Interact 2024?

If you are interested in HCI, then you should attend Interact 2024. The conference will provide you with an opportunity to:
