

When the Pandemic Stopped the World, Music's Biggest Stars Sat Down to Talk

In the early days of the COVID-19 pandemic, as the world shut down and people were forced to stay home, music became a lifeline for many. It provided comfort, solace, and a sense of connection in a time of isolation. But for the musicians themselves, the pandemic was a devastating blow. Tours were canceled, albums were delayed, and livelihoods were threatened.

In the midst of all this chaos, a new book, When the Pandemic Stopped the World, offers a unique glimpse into the lives of some of the biggest stars in music as they navigated the challenges of the pandemic. The book features interviews with artists such as Taylor Swift, Billie Eilish, Elton John, and Lady Gaga, who share their experiences of the pandemic and how it has affected their lives and careers.
